I HAD a smile on my face when I read that we have in Fiji a specie of iguana that was thought to be extinct.

All this time we have been reading of this one specie that was causing a lot of problems in some islands in Vanua Levu.

We were last told that the military were being sent out there on a search and destroy mission.

I believe that to most of us, an iguana is an iguana and in the case of this condemned specie, a good one is a dead one.

Let us hope and pray that only the ones that need to be destroyed are destroyed and not those ones that are heading towards extinction.
